

MEDIA STATEMENT - FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NEHAWU WISHES WELL THE MATRIC CLASS OF 2017

Monday October 23, 2017

The National Education Health and Allied Workers' Union [NEHAWU] takes this opportunity to wish well the matric class of 2017 as they begin writing their final year exams this morning.

We hope that the class of 2017 will do well and make proud not only their families but the whole country as well. We would like to wish all members of the South African Democratic Teachers Union [SADTU] well as they invigilate the exams and hopefully all the good work they put in throughout the year will bear fruits.

As NEHAWU we are concerned about the low pass rate in the fields of Maths and science, we hope measures were put in place to improve the situation. South Africa needs more students who do well in these fields as the national union we hope the class of 2017 will remedy the situation.

We hope that free quality education for the poor and working class children will be implemented soon. As NEHAWU, we believe that free quality education for the poor and the missing middle is possible. In this regard, working with the Progressive Youth Alliance [PYA] we shall continue to push for the implementation of free education from Grade R until Post Graduate Degree.
